ART COMMITTEE

FOREWORD

It is with great reluctance that artists turn from highly individualistic endeavor to the concerted action that war demands, but when ideologies arise that threaten the principle of untrammelled thought they must lend their talents in support of that institution which allows them to function without restraint.

The great classic periods of art were by no means aloof from the strife that wracked their day and the Salmagundi Club is proud that at this time when the battalions and squadrons of the nation are still in the process of formation a Second War Art Exhibition is already presented in their gallery.
